Your manual should show this information. We sometimes buy scrap or tired Colchester Lathes and ancillaries for stripping, so that we can help keep old machines working when spare parts become obsolete. Please don't send them to the scrap yard! We have broken the following machines, as the following list, and many of the parts are still available:

My dream is to be able to make whatever I feel like, and to that end I picked up a rather sad, but free Colchester bantam mk1 1600 lathe a little while ago. It was sat in a damp outbuilding for around 10 years, and as such is in pretty poor condition, the majority of exposed metal is rusted, although it is not pitted, and when lightly scoured ...
