

CONTENTS

- 93 Ian R Bartky: Chicago's Dearborn Observatory: a study in survival
- 115 Hermann A Brück: Recollections of life as a student and a young astronomer in Germany in the 1920s, with an Introduction by M T Brück
- 131 Patricia S Whitesell: Nineteenth-century longitude determinations in the Great Lakes region: government-university collaboration
- 159 Alexis E Troche-Boggino: Buenaventura Suárez SJ: the pioneer astronomer of Paraguay
- 165 Steven J Dick and Wayne Orchiston: History of Astronomy at the 2000 General Assembly of the International Astronomical Union
- 169 Reviews: The Star of Bethlehem: an Astronomer's View by Mark Kidger, The Star of Bethlehem: the Legacy of the Magi by Michael R Molnar (Clive Davenhall); Science in Translation: Movements of Knowledge through Cultures and Time by Scott L Montgomery (Alexander Gurshtein); Archives of the International Astronomical Union. Inventory for the Years 1919-1970 by A Blaauw (Wayne Orchiston); A Far Off Vision: a Cornishman at Greenwich Observatory, Auto-Biographical Notes by Edwin Dunkin. Transcribed, edited and with an Introduction by P D Hingley and T C Daniel (Gilbert Satterthwaite); 300 Jahre Astronomie in Berlin und Potsdam edited by Wolfgang Dick and Klaus Fritze (Klaus Hentschel); Aiming for the Stars by Tom D Crouch (Jos Heyman)

centre Title page and indexes

Cover illustrations show a series of images of the  $\eta$  Carinae area beginning with a drawing by John Herschel published in 1847, a black and white photograph taken by Ben Gascoigne with the MSSSO 40-inch reflector at Siding Spring, a colour photograph taken by David Malin with the AAO 150-inch at Siding Spring, and a view taken with the Hubble Space Telescope, courtesy J Morse (U. CO), K Davidson (U. MN), and NASA.